Jump Into Port Badly Damaged, but Almost Unharmed Reports That Russians Have Abandoned Campaign in the Bukovina District.

RUSSIAN

LONDON, Feb. 19.—The Russians
have now evacuated all of Bukovina,
according to a dispatch from Bucharest.

By Associated Press.

LONDON, Feb. 19.—So far as is known up to the present time, not a single German submarine was sighted
during the first 24 hours of the war.
The first sighting of a German submarine off the British Isles, however,
has been reported today.

These are found in the sudden announcement of a German submarine in the North Sea, involving the loss of two such vessels together with reports that they are continuing to patrol, notwithstanding the rigors of the weather.

Added to this is the visit of Emperor William and Admiral von Tirpitz to Wilhelmshaven, where it is said they hope to give impetus to the machinegunners of the fleet.

The Zepplin airships, presumably are searching for food-laden craft, moving toward England. The hitting of a Dutch steamer by a Zepplin airship, a new type of attack, which was so far during the war have done little on land or sea to justify their maintenance.

All reports agree that the Austrians at last have flung the Russians outrightly out of Bukovina. The Russian claim, however, in regard to this, but they do not seek to deny their retreat. Several weeks ago the occupation of Bukovina by the Russians and the presence of the Austrians near the Rumanian frontier was hailed as a victory which should justify the city of London in its policy.

The enemy has displayed considerable activity during the past few days at Ypres. The fighting on this part of the line has at times been at one or two points the enemy succeeded in occupying some of our trenches, but they were driven out by counter attacks.

"One of the enemy's trenches was blown up and a number of prisoners were taken. One trench delivered their guns to the British and another in spite of the difficulties entailed by the water-logged condition of the ground around the trenches, and the bad weather.

"On the night of February 16 and 17
an attack was made on the line north of the Ypres canal and on the following night a similar attack was made near Neuve Chapelle. Both were easily driven off with loss to the enemy. All the ground recently gained by us has been strengthened and held without difficulty.

"South of the river, Lez our guns don't effectively with the enemy's artillery, the fire of which has increased somewhat of late. Our aircraft have carried out valuable reconnaissances and they have also successfully engaged aeroplanes of the enemy.

"One of our aviators recently attacked two German machines in succession. He drove off the first and left the second to our artillery which brought it to the ground in hostile hands.

"The capture of numbers of prisoners in the encounters is also reported.
In the eastern arena of the war several engagements with the retreating Russians have taken place. Only minor battles in Poland are reported.
Other sections of the front remain quiet.

"Will Give Meat to Britain.
WELLINGTON, New Zealand, via London, Feb. 19.—The government has decided that all of New Zealand's surplus supplies of beef, mutton and lamb shall be reserved for the imperial authorities in response to their requests.

By Associated Press.

LONDON, Feb. 19.—The activity of Zepplin airships over the North Sea continues, telegraphs a correspondent at Copenhagen and this in spite of the fact that two airships have been lost.
One of the fleet caused by disaster
are being filled by Zepplin drawn from the airship stations in Western Germany.

A dispatch received from Copenhagen last night described the loss of two German airships in the North Sea. The Zepplin 1-23 exploded on France Island Wednesday and another such airship commanded by Captain Count Platow sank 10 miles north of Jutland yesterday. It has been ascertained that the entire Zepplin fleet is patrolling the North Sea just outside of English waters. Zepplin
No. 2 is believed to be the flagship.

Another dispatch from Rotterdam says the Dutch steamer Helon was overhauled in the North Sea last Tuesday by Zepplin 1-23, which trained her guns on the steamer and ordered her to heave to. When satisfied as to the Helon's identity, the captain of the Zepplin apologized and

FRENCH STEAMER HIT BY GERMAN SUBMARINE.

By Associated Press.
DIEPPE, France, via Paris, Feb. 19.
A German submarine torpedoed this morning without warning the French steamer Dhuafah, from Havre for Dieppe, at a point 15 miles off Dieppe.
The Dhuafah did not sink, but was towed into Dieppe. No mention is made of the loss of any of her crew.

A plate on the port side of the steamer below the water line was struck in by the torpedo. Nevertheless, the Dhuafah managed to keep afloat by hard pumping.

Word of the occurrence was taken into Dieppe by fishing boats and assistance was promptly sent out. She was towed into port and her cargo will be discharged here.

The presence of a German submarine off Cape Alder was reported four days ago. The daily steam traffic service between Dieppe and England has been suspended.

NORWEGIAN STEAMER STRIKES MINE OFF COAST OF DENMARK.

By Associated Press.
LONDON, Feb. 19.—The Norwegian tank steamer Heldeide which sailed from New Orleans January 28, and Newport News February 5, for Amsterdam, struck a mine today off Denmark.

The vessel was only slightly damaged by the explosion and she will probably finish her voyage to the Dutch port.

BLOCKADE MARMOONS FOR AMERICANS IN PARIS.

By Associated Press.
LONDON, Feb. 19.—About 100 Americans are marooned in Paris and unable to cross the English channel
because of the cancellation of railings
due to the German submarine blockade. They have communicated their plea to Ambassador France through the embassy in Paris.

The vessel was only slightly damaged by the explosion and she will probably finish her voyage to the Dutch port.

The marooned Americans in the French capital have made arrangements to cross from Havre and the day's delay in the sailing of the New York will permit them to make their connections with the liner.

Historic Liberty Bell May Be Sent to the Panama-Pacific Exposition

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 19.—It is expected that an ordinance will be introduced in the city council during the week authorizing the taking of the famous Liberty Bell to the Panama-Pacific Exposition. It is proposed to take the bell from Independence Hall to the Pennsylvania Building at San Francisco. This statue building will be dedicated on March 18.
The exposition opens on February 20, Saturday, September 1, which is the day preceding the anniversary of the first meeting of the Continental Congress, has been designated by the Pennsylvania Panama-Pacific Commission as Pennsylvania day at the exposition. The historic bell has been on several trips of national interest, but it is taken to San Francisco on a special train under special guard and accompanied by Philadelphia officials it will be the longest and most risky trip yet attempted.

CHRISTIANS ARE TOLD TO IMPROVE
THE LOCAL CHURCH

Rev. Buckner Says That All Churches Should be Rebuilt.

SOMERSET VISITORS ATTEND

Captain C. J. Harrison, President of Somerset Trust Company, and Rev.
S. G. Buckner, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal Church, were visitors at the Christian Church re-
cival meeting last night. Both delivered short addresses.

Three persons came to the altar
and professed conversion at the devotional service, following Rev. G. W.
Buckner's sermon on "Give Christ a Chance," on the text, "Behold, I stand at the door and knock."

"This," said the speaker, "is a part of Christ's message to the church at Laodicea, a church that thought it was rich and had need for nothing but knew not that it was wretched and miserable, and poor and blind and naked. Christianity has never been tried, and to every self-complacent
church that thinks well of itself Christ knocks; he comes in; give me a chance; I will sup with you and you with me."

The speaker, in this connection, appealed to the Connellsville church to enlarge its equipment, extend its walls, and improve its equipment and see what Christ would do for them and through them. "Likewise Christ stands at the door of every man's heart. He knocks and would come in.
But he will not come in unbidden. He will be the guest of the soul and then he will take possession of the life and become host to the soul and spread a feast of which man never dreamed."

200 IN STRIKE RIOT.
Sixteen Arrested When Tailors Battle
on Fifth Avenue.

By Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Feb. 19.—Sixteen men were arrested today in a riot in St.
Patrick's Cathedral. For a quarter of an hour traffic was halted for several blocks while 200 men fought in the street.

Police reserves charged the crowd with nightsticks and after a hard battle dispersed the rioters.
The police assert that the fight was between strikers from a nearby calling establishment and men who sought to take their places.

JOHN C. SLOAN, VETERAN BOILERMAKER IS DEAD

Suffered Stroke Six Years Ago and
Had Been Confining to His Room for Long Time.

John Campbell Sloan, a retired boil-ermaker of the West Side, died last evening at his home on South Sixth street following a lingering illness. Six years ago last October he suffered a stroke of paralysis and had been confined to his room for the past five years. Since December 16 he was unable to leave his bed. Wednesday night he suffered a second stroke which resulted in his death. Funeral Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the family residence. Rev. J. L.
Froudfit, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, will officiate. Interment in Hill Grove cemetery.

Mr. Sloan was one of the oldest and best known residents of the West Side, having resided there for the past 33 years. He was born in what was then known as Allegheny City, 48
years ago last March, a son of Robert and Jane Campbell Sloan. Had Rev. S. G. Buckner, pastor of the Christian Church of Somerset, were visitors at the Christian Church re-
cival meeting last night. Both delivered short addresses.

Mr. Sloan learned the boilermaking trade with Monroe & Company of Allegheny City and on coming to the West Side he built a boilermaking
shop on Main street, West Side,
where the Kelly building now stands.
Later he went into a similar business
on South Seventh street, West Side, and conducting a successful business
until that it is impossible to extract

NO NEW CASES OF FOOT AND MOUTH
DISEASE DEVELOP

Rigid Quarantine is Being Maintained at the Leighty Farm.

PREPARE TO BURY THE CATTLE

Trench 24 Feet Long, Seven Feet Wide
and Seven Feet Deep Being Dug
and Animals Will Be Buried Quickly as Possible; Situation in Hand.

A rigid quarantine to prevent the spread of the foot and mouth disease discovered on the farm of Fred Leighly, half a mile from Trotter, has been put in force in no new cases of the disease. Dr. P. N. Sherrick, representing the State Live Stock Sanitary Board here, and Dr. S. L. Bremer of Greensburg, believe that they have the situation well in hand.

The contract to dig a trench 24 feet long, seven feet wide and seven feet deep has been awarded to Mr. Leighly by the state authorities. When this is completed the 17 cattle and eight pigs affected with the disease will be interred under the supervision of Dr.
Sherrick and quicklime poured over the carcasses so that they will decompose rapidly.

The digging of this trench is quite a job. If it is completed tonight, the animals will be buried tomorrow, but if it is not finished until tomorrow,
the necessary red tape providing for this disposal of the animals cannot be worked through with until early next week.

In the meantime the care of the diseased cattle is up to Mr. Leighly. Their value has been appraised and when they are disposed of, the state will reimburse the owner for his loss.

HERKES ISLAND SOON TO HAVE QUARANTINE LIFTED
By Associated Press.
PITTSBURGH, Feb. 19.—Announcement was made at the Herkes Island stockyards today that the foot and mouth disease quarantine would be lifted next Monday and the yards opened for interstate business.
Cattle may be received from territory

Youghiogheny Lodge No. 18 of Dawson, the Order of Troopists, met last night in the auditorium of the Railroad Young Men's Christian Association at Dickerson Run and installed the following officers for the ensuing year: Past president, C. J.
McGill; president, J. L. Cottrell; vice president, T. H. Moore; counselor, H.
G. Colbert; secretary, H. H. Lohm; collector, J. L. Thomas; treasurer, J.

chaplain, J. E. McManis; H. C. Colbert and W. L. McDonald.

Following the installation a well-
arranged supper was served by Mrs.
Livingston. The meeting was well attended and was one of the best ever held. The lodge is in an excellent condition and prospects for a successful year are very encouraging. Several years were rendered by Mrs. Marguerite Rush, P. J. Tormay, H. Jennings and Charles Trimble were visitors from the Connellsville lodge.

Real Goat, in Home Talent Show,
Flew on the Secretary.

Among the principal characters in the action of the melodram, "Golden Goats," which Mount Pleasant amateurs essay to produce this evening is a goat, a real live, butting goat.
Yesterday the property boy gathered the goat in from Grand Opera House, so that he would be ready when the curtain went up on the performance.

Though confined in the cellar, Billy managed to free himself and made a tour of inspection of the building.
Finding some wires that he thought were unnecessary, he proceeded to cut them up, putting the electrical effects on the blink, and chewing up some of the foliage on the sylvan dale where the hero is to whisper soft words of love to the heroine, while the villain stalks his dressing room
superior in an attitude of defiance.
Billy whistled next after, "Give me
them papers!"

The stage hands have repaired all the damage, but a sign has been posted which reads, "No Goats Allowed."

for Friday, February 26.

Manager Jack Stevens of the Connellsville Athletic Club has booked good attractions for the next show in the West Side basketball hall on Friday night, February 26. Though the last show was not by any means a financial success to the management, it is believed that the quality of the performance was such that there will be a crowded house next Friday night.

Arch Parker of Pittsburgh, whose game struggle against Joe Turner, the middleweight champion, at the last show made him strong with the fans,
will meet Young Olsen, the "Terrible Swede," on the mat, but two out of three falls. Parker's injured ankle has completely recovered and he will be in the shape to meet Olsen.

As a curtain raiser, Dennis Johnson,
the colored boxer of the West Side,
will meet Mike Kaiser of Denver in a six round championship bout. Kaiser spared four rounds with "Ted" But-termore at the last show.

PHYSICIAN'S PRESCRIPTION FOR INDIGESTION

Important for All Those Who Suffer
After Eating.

If you suffer from indigestion after eating or find that instead of the usual little peeps in your soda pill bottle, you find a few more, you need a remedy to stop it. It's time you called a halt and did some hard thinking.

The phlegm trash is that there are thousands of men and women in this country whose stomachs are dead or dying from lack of exercise while they eat. They are still eating and they are still taking way much longer. It's wonderful to think that powerful drugs compressed in a pill will even for a little while do the work of a human stomach, but no pill was ever made that could do it for long.

A dead stomach can't be brought to life. A dead stomach can't be made and must on its own merit soon follow. Years ago a famous physician wrote the prescription for M-I-o-n Stomach Tablets and thousands owe their very life to them today. Most stomach remedy work on the food and digest it. M-I-o-n works on the stomach and digests nothing. M-I-o-n Tablets strengthen the stomach walls, stimulate the stomach muscles and vitalize the stomach machinery instantly and normal belching. The stomach starts at once to churn its food and normal, painless digestion follows. A. A. Clarke and many other leading druggists herald about sell M-I-o-n tabs-

SEVEN YEARS OF STOMACH MISERY

Constant Misery Due to Disordered Stomach Takes Enjoyment From Life.

There are a multitude of stomach sufferers in this universe and the vast majority of them have sought permanent relief vainly, sometimes they take a dose of medicine and it relieves them, but only for a few days later they repeat the process with more temporary relief, but the cure is obtainable with consistent treatment for a reasonable time to permit the stomach to become again in working order. Often enough the liver also needs attention in connection with the stomach treatment as do the bowels. No one but a sufferer from stomach trouble can fully realize the misery of the sufferer and the resulting complications for stomach trouble.

The following statement from a pleased patient of the Inter-State Doctors will be an interesting example of the quick results obtainable under the new system of medicine as practiced by the Inter-State Doctors, who have the famous medical institute on the second floor of the Citizens National Bank Building, corner of Pittsburgh and Apple streets, opposite the Aaron furniture store.

McKeesport, Pa.
To the Public:—
I have been suffering with stomach trouble complicated with a bad throat and tonsils. I didn't seem able to get well. I was advised to see the Inter-State Doctors and began to improve soon after starting their treatment. Now I am entirely well of stomach trouble and other ills with just two months treatment. I feel fine and think it just to make this statement for publication for the benefit of other sufferers.
(Signed) Mrs. Mary Leubetter, 225 Erie Street.

The Inter-State Doctors furnish all medicines direct from their own laboratory maintained at each institute. They treat all forms of chronic and deep-seated diseases of the nerves, blood, heart, kidney, liver, bladder, brain, spine, including rheumatism, epilepsy, sciatica, paralysis, chronic constipation, dyspepsia, chronic appendicitis, rupture, asthma, catarrh, deafness, neuritis, sciatica and other diseases of women and of men. Their office hours are again announced as being from 9 a. m. to 12 noon; 1 to 5 p. m. to 8 p. m. Sunday hours from 9 a. m. to 12 noon only. The Inter-State Doctors' Institute is a permanent establishment and is open every day in the year at the above stated hours.—Adv.

BAD COLD? TAKE CASCARETS FOR BOWELS TONIGHT

No Headache, Constipation, Cold or Sour Stomach by Morning.

Get a 10-cent box. Sick headache, biliousness, coated tongue, head and nose clogged up with a cold—always trace this to torpid bowels. Delayed evacuating food in the bowels or sour, gassy stomach. Poisonous matter clogging the intestines, instead of being cast out of the system is reabsorbed into the blood. When this poison reaches the delicate brain tissue it causes constipation and that dull, throbbing, sickening headache.

Cascarets immediately cleanse the stomach, remove the sour, undigested food and foul gases, take the excess bile from the liver and carry out all the constipated waste matter and poisons in the bowels.
A Cascaret tonight will surely straighten you out by morning. They work while you sleep—a 10-cent box from your druggist, removes sour head (cold), stomach, sweet and sour (acid) and bowels regular for months.—Adv.

This Napoleon Bed, Dresser and Chiffonier Complete as Pictured in Golden Oak, for $37.50

The First Time that a Napoleon Bed Room Suite Was Offered at This Price

It's doing the unusual like this this is causing people to watch for our advertising statements with keen interest. They know that when we offer a special value it is one that is deserving of the name "special." They know that thru our method of co-operative buying and concentrated advertising, we are able to bring to our customers values far greater than any firm has ever attempted to offer its customers. They know also that all our special offerings are accompanied by the privilege of purchasing on low credit terms, and this offer is a shining example of the unusualness of our special offerings.

The Napoleon Bed is Becoming Very Popular

These beautiful beds, were found almost exclusively in the old Colonial mansions. Most of them being made of solid timber. It is from the old Colonial designs that the present Napoleon Bed models are designed, and the one included in this special offer is a copy of the most widely known and popular Napoleon bed design.

The Dresser and Chiffonier are also Copies of Colonial Pieces

The entire three pieces are exact copies of old Colonial Masterpieces. All three pieces are made in the same factory and harmonize beautifully. The dressers and Chiffonier are extra large pieces with large French Plate Beveled Mirror. The two small drawers at the top of dresser and Chiffonier are extended as you see in the illustration. The cabinet-work is of the very finest. The drawers slide smoothly and noiselessly.

The Eight Cylinder Cadillac (TYPE 51)

The matchless mode of motoring reserved to only a few privileged persons in the Old World (at an almost prohibitive price) developed by the Cadillac Company for American motorists!

"The sweetest running car in the World!"

This is the verdict of those who have experienced the super-luxury of the Cadillac Eight.

The old Cadillac saying, "Just get in and ride," applies with greater significance now than ever before.

In the High-speed High-efficiency Eight-cylinder V type engine, there are eight power impulses during each complete cycle—one power impulse every quarter turn of the fly-wheel.

There is no intermission between impulses but rather an overlapping so complete that one melts or merges into another. The torque therefore is constant and the flow of power is continuous.

As the Cadillac softly speeds along under this new power-principle, the sensation is as unique as though you had never motored before.

It is useless to try to depict in words, which you have never felt or to portray a degree of ease which you have never experienced.

Nothing but your first memorable ride in the new Cadillac Eight can reveal the wealth of motoring luxury which this car affords.

As you sink into the soft, yielding cushions, you become enraptured in that delightful sensation of floating through space, and all you need to do to enjoy this sensation is to call on either phone, it will be a pleasure to demonstrate this automobile.

PANAMA-PACIFIC EXPOSITION WILL OPEN TOMORROW

President Wilson to Send Wireless Flash Across Continent.

THE BIG FAIR IS ALL READY

Exposition Which Represents Expenditure of $20,000,000 is Fully Complete and Only Awaits Word of the President to Throw Open Its Gates.

By Associated Press.
SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 19.—An electric spark of enormous potential, jumping across the continent, will open the Panama-Pacific International Exposition at noon tomorrow, Pacific Coast time.

In the White House at Washington, the President will press a button and the aerials of the great government radio station at Arlington will send and scatter the vibrations that will be received at an immense fraction of a second later by a commercial station on the shores of San Francisco bay, where they will be relayed by wire to a receiving instrument on the exposition grounds.

At the same time, the President, the wheels will begin to turn and the fountains to play; the gates will swing open and a procession of citizens, with the mayor at their head will march on to the grounds.

At the same time, President Charles C. Moore, of the exposition company, will inform President Wilson by word of mouth, over a telephone line already set up and waiting, that the wireless flash has been received and the exposition is open. In this President Wilson will send his greetings and good wishes. Thus the two latest modes of long distance communication will be employed to vibrate the fair. Commences of dedication and acceptance as brief as it is possible to make them will follow.

After the outbreak of the European war there sprang up a rumor that the exposition would not open. As a matter of fact, the exposition stands today 100 per cent complete. Few of a doubt with 11 foreign nations participating, of which 20 have built pavilions of their own. Bulgaria, Germany, Austria and Russia, among the belligerents, are not officially represented although various of their commercial organizations have been to it that they should not be wholly left out of mind. France, Italy and Japan are officially represented, as are 41 states and territories under the flag of the United States, Canada and Australia, under the British flag, both have buildings.

Structurally speaking, that part of the exposition built out of its own funds and wholly under the control of its own directors was finished six months ago.

The grounds lie on the water front, adjoining the United States military reservation known as the Presidio, facing San Francisco bay, with the Golden Gate visible to the west. The broad stretches of natural expansion are graded and staked to the texture and color of Italian travertine. Where the statuary has not been wrought from the same material, it has been finished in a soft buff, or burnt marble.

Thus the exposition as a whole has the soft tone of a pastel, done in the pre-arranged manner. Other world's fairs have been uniformly "white," which in the strong light of the California climate, would have been painfully glaring.

Dominating the whole scheme is the Palace of Jewels, 125 feet high, in the central court of the universe, whose Corinthian columns are taller than those of Saint Peter's at Rome. Each column is surmounted by the figure of a star, whose head dress is covered with "jewels," and from the tower itself depend 50,000 sparkling in all colors, which flash in the sun and scintillate at night when the searchlights illuminate the court.

The site and plan of the exposition have made it the most compact ever built. It occupies 82 acres, of which 50 have been devoted to horticultural displays. Liberal use of palms, shrubs, vines and trees has been made to relieve and diversify the long facades of the exhibit palaces. At the far ends of the grounds are the athletic field and race track; at the near end lies the zone, in which is grouped the amusement concessions.

Conceived to celebrate the opening of the Panama Canal, the idea of the Exposition had its inception in 1901. The great fire of 1906, in which San Francisco was practically destroyed, only delayed plans for its execution. The authorization of the state legislature, together with an appropriation

WOMAN COULD NOT SIT UP

Now Does Her Own Work. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Helped Her.

Ironton, Ohio.—"I am enjoying better health now than I have for twelve years. When I began to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I could not sit up. I had female troubles and was very nervous. I used the remedies a year and I can do my work and for the last eight months I have worked for other women, too. I cannot praise Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound enough for I know I never would have been as well if I had not taken it and I recommend it to suffering women."

—Mrs. RENA BOWMAN, 101 S. 10th Street, Ironton, Ohio.

Why will women continue to suffer day in and day out and drag out a sickly, half-hearted existence, missing three-fourths of the joy of living, when they can find health in Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound?

If you have the slightest doubt that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will help you, write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass., for advice. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

MOUNT PLEASANT, Feb. 19.—O. J. Shupe gave the annual dinner to his employees last evening. The dinner was served in the basement of the United Brethren Church. Mr. Shupe was assisted in receiving by his daughters, Mrs. Flood and Mrs. Collins. Thirty-four were present. The men brought their wives and families or their mothers. Pink and green was the color scheme and carnations and ferns were used in decorating the long table. The Ladies Aid Society served one of their most delicious dinners and the menu was crown of roast, soup, olives, pickles, turkey and filling, fried oysters, mashed potatoes and sweet potatoes, lima beans, celery, cranberry sauce, pineapple salad and water, ice cream, cake, coffee and after dinner mint. Following the dinner they were all Mr. Shupe's guests at a theatre party at the Cox Theatre.

Arrangements are being made for a supper meeting which will be held in the Re-Union Presbyterian Church some time in the near future. The meeting will be an open one with invitations extended to any person who will be interested enough to come. The Rev. Mr. Hutchinson of Scotland will speak.

C. F. Goldsmith, the druggist, has presented the book and ladder of the Mount Pleasant Fire Department with a First Aid kit and stretcher which are on exhibition in the Zimmerman window on Main street. The Metropolitan Insurance Company also offers a first aid in the home book to any person of the company who calls at the store. The book gives the names to learn just what each article is used for and why it should be used that way. First Aid drills will likely be held in the near future.

The Sociality of St. Joseph's will hold a box social at the school this evening.

RHEUMATISM IN JOINTS

Pain Disappears and Swelling Vanishes in a Few Days.

That is what happens if you use Rheumal, the wonderful remedy that A. A. Clarke and all druggists sell on "money back if not cured" plan. There is a vast amount of rheumatism in this vicinity, and if you know any sufferer, call his attention to this generous offer.

Rheumal is a quick-acting prescription. You will know your rheumatism is leaving 24 hours after you take the first dose. It dissolves the uric acid and drives it from its hiding places. Mrs. Alice A. Brown, (Thatcher, N. Y.), writes: "For seven years I suffered severely with rheumatism in my hip; at night I was scarcely able to sleep. One bottle of Rheumal cured me."

That sounds miraculous, but Rheumal does miraculous things. Fifty cents a bottle.—Adv.

Night with its wonderful sensations was behind them. Day revealed the shadow that had fallen. They unconsciously shrank from it and drew back into the shelter of their own imaginations. The joyous abandon of the night before was dead. Over its grave stood the specter of unrest, loathing.

When he took her in his arms later on, and kissed her, there was not the shadow of a doubt in the mind of either that the restraining influence of a condition over which they had no control was there to mock their endeavor to be natural. They kissed as through a veil. They were awake once more, and they were wary, unconvinced. The answer to their questions came in the kiss itself, and constraint fell upon them.

Drawn by an impulse that had been struggling within him for some time, Frederic found himself standing at the dining-room window. It was a shy, covert though intensely eager look that he directed at another window far below. If he hoped for some sign of life in his father's study he was to be disappointed. The curtains hung straight and motionless. He would have denied the charge that he longed to see Yvonne sitting in the easement, waiting to wait a sign of greeting up to him, and yet he was conscious of a feeling of disappointment, even annoyance.

With considerable adroitness, he engaged his attention at the piano. Roused up as she was, his every emotion was plain to her perceptions. She had anticipated the motive that led him to the window. She knew that it would assert itself in spite of all that he could do to prevent. She waited humbly for the thing to happen, pain to her heart, and when her reading proved true, she was prepared to combat its effect. Music was her only ally.

"How does it go, Freddy—the thing you were playing before, breakfast?" She was trying to pick up the elusive air. "It is such a fascinating, adorable thing in this right?"

He came over and stood beside her. His long, thin fingers joined hers on the keyboard, and the sensuous strains of the waltz responded to his touch. He smiled patiently as she struggled to repeat what he had played. The fever of the thing took hold of him at last, as she had known it would. Leaning over her shoulder, his cheek quite close to hers, he played. Her hands dropped into his lap. Finally she moved over on the bench and he sat down beside her. He was absorbed in the undertaking. His brow cleared. His smile was happy, warmer one.

"It's a tricky thing, Freddy," he said, enthusiastically, "but you'll get it. Now, listen."

For an hour they sat there, master and pupil, sweetheart and lover, and the fear was less in the heart of one when, lying at last, the other contentedly abandoned the role of taskmaster and threw himself upon the couch, remarking as he stretched himself in luxurious ease:

"I like this, Freddy. I wish you didn't have to go over there and dig any at that confounded journal. I like this so well that, 'pon my soul, I'd enjoy leading here with you the whole dry long."

Her heart leaped. "You shall have your wish, Freddy," she said, barely able to conceal the note of eagerness in her voice. "I am not going to work today. I—my head, you know. Mother telephoned to Mr. Brood this morning before you were up. Stay here with me. Don't go home, Freddy. I—"

"Oh, I've got to have it out with father sometime," he said, bitterly. "It may as well be now as later on. We've got to come to an understanding."

Her heart was cold. She was afraid of what would come out of that "understanding." All night long she had lain with wide-awake eyes, thinking of the horrible thing James Brood had said to her. Far in the night she awoke from her mother from a sound sleep to put the question that had been torturing her for hours. Mrs. Desmond confessed that her husband had told her that Brood had never considered Frederic to be his son, and then the two lay side by side for the remainder of the night without uttering a word and yet keenly aware. They were thinking of the hour when Brood would serve notice on the intruder!

Lydia now realized that the hour was near. "Have it out with father," he had said in his ignorance. He was preparing to rush headlong to his doom. To prevent that catastrophe was the single, all-absorbing thought in Lydia's mind. Her only hope lay in keeping the men apart until she could extract from Brood a promise to be merciful, and this she intended to accomplish if she had to go down on her knees and crawl before the man.

"Oh, Freddy," she cried, earnestly, "why take the chance of making a bad matter worse?" Then as she uttered the words she realized how stupid, how ineffectual they were.

"It can't be much worse," he said, gloomily. "I am inclined to think he'll talk a straight-out, fair and square talk, anyhow. Moreover, I mean to take Yvonne to task for the thing she said—or implied last night. About you, I mean. She—"

"She was jealous. She admitted it, dear. If I don't mind, why should you?"

"Do you really believe she—she loves the governor enough to be as jealous as all that?" he exclaimed, a curious gleam in his eyes—an expression she did not like.

"Of course I think so," she cried emphatically. "What a question! Have you any reason to suspect that she does not love your father?"

"No—certainly not," he said in some confusion. Then, after a moment: "Are you quite sure this headache of yours is real, Freddy? Isn't it an excuse to stay away from—Yvonne, after what happened last night? Is honest, dear."

She was silent for a long time, weighing her answer. Was it best to be honest with him?

"I confess that it has something to do with it," she admitted. Lydia could not be anything but truthful.

"I thought so. It's—it's a rotten shame, Freddy. That's why I want to talk to her. I want to reason with her. It's all so perfectly silly, this misanthropic, demanding. You've just got to go on as you were before, Freddy—just as if it hadn't happened. It—"

"I shall complete the work for your father, Freddy," she said quietly. "Two or three days more will see the end. After that, neither my services nor my presence will be required over there."

"You don't mean to say—" he began, unbelievably.

"I can think of them just as well here as anywhere else. No, I shan't annoy Mrs. Brood, Freddy." It was on the tip of her tongue to say more, but she thought better of it.

"They're going abroad soon," he ventured. "At least, that's father's plan. Yvonne isn't so keen about it. She calls this being abroad, you know, Brood's," he hurried on in his eager haste to excuse Yvonne, "she's tremendously fond of you. No end of times she's said you were the finest." Her smile—an odd one, such as he had never seen on her lips before—checked his eager speech. He bridled. "Of course, if you don't choose to believe me, there's nothing more to be said. She meant it, however."

"I am sure she said it, Freddy," she hastened to declare. "Will she be pleased with our marriage?"

It required a great deal of courage on her part to utter those words, but she was determined to bring the true situation home to him.

He did not even hesitate, and there was conviction in his voice as he replied. "It doesn't matter whether she's pleased or displeased. We're pleasing ourselves, are we not? There's no one else to consider, dear."

Her eyes were full upon his, and there was wonder in them. "Thank you—thank you, Freddy," she cried. "I—knew you'd—"

"There ever been a doubt in your mind?" he asked, uneasily, after a moment. He knew there had been misgivings and he was ready, in his self-abandonment, to resent them if given the slightest opening. Guilt made him arrogant.

"No," she answered simply. The answer was not what he expected. He flushed painfully.

"I—I thought perhaps you'd—you'd got a notion in your head that—"

He stopped for want of the right words to express himself without committing the egregious error of letting her see that it had been in his thoughts to accuse her of jealousy.

She waited for a moment. "That I might have got the notion in my head you did not love me any longer? Is that what you started to say?"

"Yes," he confessed, averting his eyes.

"I've been unhappy at times, Freddy, but that is all," she said, steadily. "You see, I know how honest you really are. I know it far better than you know it yourself."

He stared. "I wonder just how honest I am," he muttered. "I wonder what would happen if—"

But nothing can happen. Nothing ever will happen. Thank you, old girl, for saying what you said just now. It's—it's a bully of you."

He got up and began pacing the floor. She leaned back in her chair, deliberately giving him time to straighten out his thoughts for himself. When that she knew herself to be, she held back the warm, loving words of encouragement, of gratitude, of belief.

But she was not prepared for the impetuous appeal that followed. He threw himself down beside her and grasped her hands in his. His face seemed suddenly old and haggard, his eyes burned like coals of fire. Then, for the first time, she had an inkling of the great struggle that had been going on inside of him for weeks and weeks.

"Listen, Freddy," he began, nervous. "Will you marry me tomorrow? Are you willing to take the chance that I'll be able to support you, to earn enough?"

"Why, Freddy?" she cried, half startled, half in awe. She was dumb-founded.

"Will you? Will you? I mean it," he went on, almost arrogantly.

"Will You Marry Me Tomorrow?"

portunate lover was missing. She awoke back into the corner of the couch, staring at him with puzzled eyes. Comprehension was slow in arriving. As he hurried on with his plea she began to see clearly; her sound, level brain grasped the insidiousness of this sudden decision on his part.

"There's no use waiting, dear. I'll never be more capable of earning a living than I am right now. I can go into the office with Brooks any day and—I think I can make good. God knows I can try hard enough. Brooks says he's got a place there for me in the bond department. It won't be much at first, but I can work into a pretty good—what's the matter? Don't you think I can do it? Have you no faith in me? Are you afraid to take a chance?"

She had smiled sadly—it seemed to him reprovingly. His cheek flushed. "What has put all this into your head, Freddy, dear?" she asked sharply.

"My eyes wavered. 'I can't go on living as I have been for the past few months. I've just got to end it. Lyddy, you don't understand—you can't, and there isn't any use in trying to explain the—'

"I think I do understand, dear," she said, quietly, laying her hand on his. "I understand so completely that there isn't any use in your trying to explain. But don't you think you are a bit cowardly?"

"Cowardly?" he gasped, and then the blood rushed to his face. "It is quite fair to me—or to your self?" He was silent. She waited for a moment and then went on resolutely. "I know just what it is that you are afraid of, Freddy. I shall marry you, of course. I love you more than anything else in all the world that is you quite fair in asking me to marry you while you are still afraid?"

"Before God, I love no one else but you," he cried, earnestly. "I know what it is you are thinking and I—I don't blame you. But I want you now—good God, you don't know how much I need you now. I want to begin a new life with you. I want to feel that you are with me—just you—strong and brave and enduring. I am afraid. I need you."

"If you insist, I will marry you tomorrow, but you cannot—you will not ask it of me, will you?"

"But you know I love you," he cried. "There isn't any doubt in my mind. Lyddy, there is no one else, I tell you."

"I think I am just beginning to understand men," she remarked calmly. He looked up sharply. "And to wonder why they call women the weaker sex, eh?"

"Yes," she said so seriously that he wavered. "I don't believe there are many women who would ask a man to be sorry for them. That's really what all this amounts to, isn't it, Freddy?"

"By jove!" he exclaimed, wonderingly. "You are a strong self-willed, city-bred man, and yet you think nothing of asking a woman to protect you against yourself. You are afraid to stand alone. Wait. Five minutes, you one minute before you asked it of me, Freddy, and you were thundering in the darkness, uncertain which way to turn. You were afraid of the things you could not see. You looked for some place in which to hide. The flash of light revealed a haven of refuge. So you asked me to—marry you tomorrow." All through this incident she had held his hand clasped tightly in both of hers. He was looking at her with a frank acknowledgment growing in his eyes.

"Are you ashamed of me, Lyddy?" he asked. It was confession.

"No," she said, meeting his gaze steadily. "I am a little disappointed, that's all. It is you who are ashamed."

"I am," said he, simply. "It wasn't fair."

"Love will endure. I am content to wait," she said, with a wistful smile. "You will be my wife, no matter what happens? You won't let this make any difference?"

"You are not angry with me?"

"Angry? Why should I be angry with you, Lyddy? For shaking some sense into me? For seeing through me with that wonderful, far-sighted brain of yours? Why, I could go down on my knees to you. I could—"

He clasped her in his arms and held her close. "You dear, dear Lyddy!" Neither spoke for many minutes. It

WOMEN SUFFER FROM WAR

Thousands of Women of Europe Are Left Destitute, Unprotected and Miserable.

The horrors of the women of America go on to their sisters in Europe who are left in misery and want. American women often suffer from misadventures that are purely feminine.

At the first symptoms of any derangement of the feminine organism at any period of life the one safe, really helpful remedy is Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription.

It is a woman's medicine and as such is highly and marvelously restorative power is acknowledged the country over.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is a true friend to women in times of trial and at times of pain when the organs are not performing their functions. For headaches, backache, fainting, catarrhal condition, bearing down sensation, mental depression, dizziness, fainting spells, hysteria and exhaustion women should never fail to take this tried and true women's medicine.

It's not a secret remedy for all the ingredients are printed on the wrapper. Sold in either tablet or liquid form.

A GREAT BOOK EVERY WOMAN SHOULD HAVE

"If you will pay the mailing charges which are but a trifle," says Dr. Pierce, "I will send you my cloth bound book of over 1,000 pages with color plates and numerous illustrations and will not charge you a penny for the book itself."

Over a million copies of "The People's Common Sense Medical Adviser" are now in the hands of the people. It is a book that everyone should have and read in case of accident or sickness. It is so plainly written that anyone can understand it.

Send 20 cents in stamps for mailing charges to Dr. Pierce, Invalids' Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y., and enclose this notice and you will receive by return mail, all charges prepaid, this valuable book.

was she who broke the alliance.

"You must promise one thing, Frederic. For my sake, avoid a quarrel with your father. I could not bear that. You will promise, dear? You must."

"His jaw was set. 'I don't intend to quarrel with him, but if I am to remain in his house there has got to be—'

"Promise me you will wait. He is going away in a couple of weeks. When he returns—later on—next fall—"

"Oh, if it really distresses you, Lyddy, I'll—"

"It does distress me. I want your promise."

"I'll do my part," he said, resignedly. "And next fall will see us married, so—"

The telephone bell in the hall was ringing. Frederic released Lyddy's hand and sat up rather stiffly, as one who suddenly suspects that he is being spied upon. The significance of the movement did not escape Lyddy. She laughed mirthlessly.

"I will see who it is," she said, and arose. Two red spots appeared in his cheeks. Then it was that she realized he had been waiting all along for the bell to ring; he had been expecting a summons.

"If it's for me, please say—er—say 'I'll—' he began, somewhat disjunctedly, but she interrupted him.

"Will you stay here for luncheon, Frederic? And this afternoon we will go to—Oh, is there a concert or a regatta?"

"Yes, I'll stay if you'll let me," he said, wistfully. "We'll find something to do."

She went to the telephone. He heard the polite greetings, the polite assurances that she had not taken cold, two or three laughing rejoinders to what must have been amusing comments on the storm and its effect on him, and then:

"Yes, Mrs. Brood, I will call him to the phone."

CHAPTER XIII.

Two Women.

Frederic had the feeling that he slunk to the telephone. The girl handed the receiver to him and he met her confident, untrembling gaze for a second. Instead of returning to the sitting-room where she could have heard everything that he said, she went into her own room down the hall and closed the door. He was not conscious of any intention to temporize, but it was significant that he did not speak until the door closed behind her. Afterwards he realized and was ashamed.

Almost the first words that Yvonne uttered were of a nature to puzzle and irritate him, although they bore directly upon his own previously formed resolution. Her voice, husky and low, seemed strangely plaintive and lifeless to him.

"Have you and Lyddy made any plans for the afternoon?" she inquired. He made haste to declare their intention to attend a concert. "I am glad you are going to do that," she went on. "You will stay for luncheon with Lyddy?"

"Yes. She's trying to pick up that thing of Faverelli's—the one we heard last night." There was silence at the other end of the wire. "Are you there?"

"I will be home for dinner, of course. You—you don't need me for anything, do you?"

"No," she said. Then, with a low laugh: "You may be excused for the day, my son. Your father and I have been discussing the trip abroad."

"I thought you—you were opposed to going."

"I've changed my mind. As a matter of fact, I've changed my heart." "You speak in riddles." She was silent for a long time. "Frederic, I want you to do something for me. Will you try to convince Lyddy that I meant no offense last night when I—"

"She understands all that perfectly, Yvonne."

"No, she doesn't. A woman wouldn't understand."

"In what way?"

"There was a pause. 'No woman likes to be regarded as a fool,' she said at last, apparently after careful reflection. 'Oh, yes, there is something else. We are dining out this evening.'

"You and I?" he asked after a moment.

"Certainly not. Your father and I. I was about to suggest that you dine with Lyddy—or better still, ask her over here to share your dinner with you."

He was scowling. "Where are you going?"

"Going? Oh, dining. I see. Well," she said, deliberately, "we thought it would be great fun to dine alone at Delmonico's and see a play afterward."

"What play are you going to see?" he cut in. She mentioned a Delmonico production. "Wait, I hope you enjoy it, Yvonne. By the way, how is the governor today? In a good humor?"

There was no response. He waited for a moment and then called out: "Are you there?"

"Good-by," came back over the wire. He started as if he had given him a slap in the face. Her voice was cold and forbidding.

When Lyddy rejoined him in the sitting-room he was standing at the window, staring across the courtyard far below.

Are you going?" she asked, steadily.

Have you got Dr. James' Headache Powders?—then there will be no disappointment.

"Fear of Premature Burial. The fear of premature burial, which prompted the late Lord Byron to direct by his will that his heart should be removed from his body, has caused many well known men and women to order a surgical operation to be performed upon their bodies. Harriet Martineau left her doctor £10 to amputate her head, and Lady Burton directed that her heart should be placed with a needle. The late Edmund Yates left instructions that his jugular vein should be severed, with a provision that a fee of 20 guineas should be paid for the purpose. Literary persons appear to have been particularly afraid of premature burial. Bishop Berkeley, Lord Lytton, Hans Andersen and William Collins all took measures to protect themselves from it—Westminster Gazette.

Life Doesn't Wait For You. It is one of the provoking, but interesting things about life that it never stops a moment for admiration. No sooner do you pause to enjoy it, or philosophize over it, or poetize about it, than it is up and away, and the next time you glance around it is vanishing over the hill—with the wind in its garments and the sun in its hair. If you do not go on with life it will go on without you.—American Magazine.

Already Taken. "I wouldn't marry the best man on earth," said Belle scornfully to her dearest friend.

"I guess you wouldn't," said Claire happily. "He has promised me that he'll never marry again, even if I should die."—Ladies Home Journal.

Magazines on Warships. If there is any danger that sailors dread more than any other is an explosion in the powder magazine. To prevent such an occurrence a device for flooding that compartment in the least possible time is fitted to most big battleships. A pipe below the surface connects the magazine with the sea. This pipe is closed by two taps, which are connected with the deck. In case of danger it is only the work of a minute to open the taps, let the sea rush in through the pipes and flood the magazine. The water is afterward drained off by means of a gutter.—London Mail.

Head Stopped Up? Can't Breathe? Try the Vick Vap-O-Rub Treatment

Applied in Salve Form Over Throat and Chest Relieves by Inhalation and Absorption.

Vapor treatments are best for inflammation of the air passages. The vapors carry the medication direct to the inflamed surfaces without disturbing the stomach, as internal medicines will do. A very convenient vapor treatment is a good application of Vick's Vap-O-Rub Salve over the throat and chest, covered with a warm annel cloth. The body heat releases vapors that are inhaled with every breath, opening the air passages, loosening the phlegm, and healing the raw surface. For deep chest colds, first apply hot wet towels to open the pores. Vick's is then absorbed through the skin, taking out that tightness and soreness. 25c, 50c, or $1.00.

NOT VERY NEUTRAL.

Audience at Show Express Strong Pro-German Sentiment.

An illustration of the "neutrality" of Connelville Americans, as far as they were individually concerned, was given at the Soisson Theatre last night. During the Matt & Jeff show, the company sings a song about "Gauls Sam" and pictures of the various European monarchs were flashed on a screen.

The rulers of Italy, Russia, England, and Austria got perfunctory applause from the crowded house, but when the Kaiser was shown, there was a genuine outburst, exceeded only by the ovations tendered a likeness of President Woodrow Wilson and the American flag.

Baby's Happiness Depends on Health

Cross, fretful babies usually need a laxative to make them comfortable, and comfort begets happiness. Constipation is the cause of much discomfort. Mothers should watch closely the condition of their children's bowels and so that they are regular.

A mild, pleasant tasting laxative such as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, is ideal for children because of its natural composition and gentle action, and because it contains no opiates, narcotics or other harmful habit-forming drugs. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is sold by druggists everywhere. A teaspoonful at bedtime will bring easy, certain relief.

A free bottle can be obtained by writing to Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 412 Washington St., Monticello, Ill.

To Provide for the Utmost Safety of Patrons and Property is the First Duty of Every Well-Managed Railroad

The railroads of Pennsylvania and New Jersey fully realize the importance of properly manned trains. Were the claims of those who arbitrarily forced the railroads, under the Full Crew Laws, to employ men for whom no jobs exist just and warrantable, the railroads themselves would be the first to recognize those claims.

Full Crew Laws Costly

Interstate Commerce Commission statistics conclusively prove that Full Crew Laws work three grave hardships—i. e.:

- 1—They increase the number of casualties.
- 2—They cost the railroads and thousands of men and women who, directly, or indirectly, as depositors in banks, trust companies, and savings funds are investors in railroad bonds and stocks, approximately $2,000,000 a year in wages for unnecessary labor.
- 3—They deprive the people of a vast amount of improvements.

No Trains Undermanned

The railroads contend that their trains never could be undermanned for the following good business reasons:

First—A freight train of one locomotive at $25,000, and 75 cars at $1000 each, would represent $100,000 in rolling stock. Is it reasonable to assume that a railroad would jeopardize the safety of that great capital investment to save $2.75, the wage of an extra brakeman? Would it risk the loss of $100,000 worth of property to save $2.75?

Second—The railroads know that, to reach full earning capacity and to get from their equipment and roadway greatest possible service, all trains must be manned with enough men to enable them to do their work and make their trips in the least possible time.

Public Inconvenienced

Suppose, for example, the Lackawanna Limited left New York for Buffalo with four cars. Suppose it arrived at Stroudsburg and there it became necessary to put on a fifth car to accommodate unexpected traffic. Under the Full Crew Laws this could be done only after an extra brakeman had been brought from a division point, or the Stroudsburg passengers would have to stand in crowded cars until the train reached Scranton. Should the public be so inconvenienced?

Why Laws Should Be Repealed

The railroads now—as always—intend to man every freight and passenger train to the full requirements of safety and operating efficiency. They intend to do all within their power to expedite traffic and promote public convenience. They desire to give that absolute safety, efficiency and service to which the people are entitled.

There is no purpose to lay off men whose services are necessary to adequately man trains; the object is merely to eliminate men for whom there is no real necessity and for whom jobs exist only by edict of law.

Legislation that hampers railroad service, safety and efficiency by expending money which should be used to increase the safety, the welfare and the convenience of the public is unfair to the people.

REFUSE ORDERS

Atlantic Shipyards are Now Booked Beyond Their Capacity.

Some of the Atlantic Coast ship yards now have reached the point where they are obliged to decline additional contracts. One large yard was forced to refuse orders for three boats last week and another found itself unable to consider the taking on of one or two additional.

Various reports are to be heard as to the number of boats that will not be in the market, but it is known that it is an impressive one. Steel for some of the recent boat contracts has been placed. The Carnegie Steel Company has received about 9,000 tons, including 8,000 tons of plates from the Fore River Ship Building Corporation for the two big boats for the Texas company. The same company will furnish the shapes and Connelville makers the plates, both totalling about 4,500 tons, for the boat last taken by the Newport News Ship Building & Dry Dock Company. It now is officially confirmed that this vessel is for the Standard Oil Company, making a total of three boats for the latter taken by the Newport News yard and of six vessels in all booked recently by this builder from various transportation companies.

SOUP HOUSE OPEN.

Still Doing Business, but Mild Weather Causes Decreased Demands.

The Salvation Army soup house on Meadow lane is still doing business at the old stand, though the number of persons fed is decreasing as the weather becomes better.

On Friday, Saturday and Monday 115 dinners were given, 30 garments furnished the shapes and Connelville

YOUR FRECKLES

Need Attention in February and March or Face May Stay Covered.

Now is the time to take special care of the complexion if you wish it to look well the rest of the year. The February and March winds have a strong tendency to bring out freckles that may stay all summer unless removed. Now is the time to use Othine—double strength.

This prescription for the removal of freckles was written by a prominent physician and is usually so successful that it is sold by A. A. Clarke under guarantee to refund your money if it fails. Get an ounce of Othine—double strength, and even a few applications should show a wonderful improvement, some of the smaller freckles even vanishing entirely.—Adv.
